by Hisashi Nirei¹*, Osamu Kazaoka², Masaaki Uzawa³, Tomoyo Hiyama³, Jonas Satkunas⁴, and Muneki Mitamura⁵

Erratum to: Observations on seismically induced liquefaction-fluidization in reclaimed land at Hinode, Honshu, Japan

¹ Japan Branch of International Union of Geological Sciences, Commission on Geoscience for Environmental Management (IUGS-GEM), 1277-1 Kamayauchi, Motoyahagi, Katori City, Chiba Prefecture 287-0025, Japan; The Geo-pollution Control Agency, Japan; *Corresponding author, E-mail: nireihasashi@msn.com

² Research Institute of Environmental Geology, Chiba, Japan, E-mail: osamu.kazaoka@gmail.com

³ Kanto-Kensetsu Co., 699 Mobara, Mobara City, Chiba 297-0026, Japan, E-mail: t.hiyama@k-and-o-energy.co.jp

⁴ Geological Survey of Lithuania, Vilnius, Lithuania, E-mail: jonas.satkunas@lgt.lt

⁵ Osaka City University, Osaka, Japan, E-mail: mitamura@sci.osaka-cu.ac.jp

Erratum to: Episodes, December 2016, v. 39, no. 4, pp. 568–581.

DOI:10.18814/epiugs/2016/v39i4/103889

There is an error in Figure 16 in page 576. It is the same as Figure 15 in page 575. Therefore, Figure 16 has to be changed into following figure.

Figure 16. Isopach map of the Downstream Material Layer (DML).

The original article can be found under <http://dx.doi.org/10.18814/epiugs/2016/v39i4/103889>